$450,000 LEGACY TO BOY HAS STRINGS

Through an unusual "penalty will," the three-year-old son of the former Lilias Moriarty, beautiful Boston and Newport society aviatrix, will lose a $450,000 legacy if he has a brother who lives to be 21, it was learned today.

The legacy is part of a million-dollar estate left by Mrs. Mary Sheffield Moriarty of Newport, R. I., grandmother of the aviatrix who now is Mrs. Pierrepont E. Johnson of Newport.

In the grandmother's will, filed in Newport probate court, she stipulated that the principal sum of $450,000 go to Mrs. Johnson's "youngest son" when he reaches his majority.

Thus far she has only the one child, Pierrepont Edwards Johnson, Jr., born May 25, 1935, in the Phillips House.

If she has another son, however, and he survives to be 21, this son will inherit, and if she has a third son, he will be the winner—and so on.

Thus it may be a matter of years before the huge legacy to the House of Johnson's youngest

KITTY TELLS OF 'RIDE' THREAT; DENIES TRYST

Tony Brando, owner of the Brown Derby night club, and an unidentified man threatened to take her cousin for a ride if he refused to testify against her, Mrs.. Kitty Brando, wife of Tony, swore on the stand today in Brookline court.

She is on trial on a morals charge preferred by Brando, from whom she has been estranged several months.

He made a similar charge against Jimmy McHale, dapper former band leader at the Brown Derby who was absent today but who is expected to fly here from Ohio to defend himself and Kitty when the trial resumes tomorrow morning.

DENIES KISSING M'HALE

The dark-haired, pretty defendant denied spiritedly on the stand that she ever had registered at a hotel with McHale or ever had kissed him.

Her cousin, Arthur Tobin, a Brown Derby bartender, was the principal witness against her and McHale last Friday, first day of the trial, because Brando and his mystery companion threatened Tobin with bodily harm, Tony's wife said.

Hurley-Labor Plan

Job Bonds Rejected

The House way and means committee today flatly turned down Governor Hurley's "labor" proposal of a $10,000,000 state roads bond issue and for the diversion of $5,500,000 gas taxes into the state's general fund.

Instead, the committee recommended a bill calling for distribution of the $5,500,000 to cities and towns for local roads, projects undertaken with the money to have the approval of the State Department of Public Works.

Hurley's "labor" program was to give $5,000,000 from the proposed $10,000,000 bond issue to cities and towns, the other $5,000,000 to the Department of Public Works for "purely State" road building.

COMMITTEE SPLIT

The $5,500,000 of motorists' taxes, under this program, would be used for general State expenses.

The House ways and means committee split on the Hurley program on strictly party lines, seven Republican members against, four Democratic members for.

The committee's rejection of the proposal means its death, as the Republican-controlled House undoubtedly will follow the committee's recommendation, it was predicted.

BLAST BY ASPELL

Whether, on the other hand, the Republican members of the House will vote solidly in favor of the new proposal to distribute the $5,500,000 highway fund to cities and towns, remained problematical.

The House later met in regular session. Indications were the Democratic members would oppose the ways and means committee's substitute suggestion unanimously.

"It's a hodgepodge," Representative John Aspell, Democratic floor leader, said. "It would be of no benefit to labor. Members of the ways and means committee who voted for it didn't know what they were voting for."

Rush Aid to 3 In Mystery Blast

NEW LONDON, July 21—Radio appeals for help were received here this afternoon from the S. S. Hampden, a freighter, at Falkners Island in Long Island Sound, stating that three men were "badly burned in an explosion."

The explosion was on the island, not on the Hampden, the radio message made clear.

The radio call asked that the coast guard be sent to take the three victims to a hospital.

Falkners Island is approximately 30 miles northeast of New London. How or when or under what circumstances the explosion occurred, or how the Hampden came to pick up the three victims, was not stated.

The Soul of America

THERE is something more important than matter, and that is mind.

There is something more important than machinery, and that is spirit.

There are some things more important to a nation than wealth and material resources, and they are courage, ambition, determination, devotion to great purposes and high ideals.

Young Mr. Corrigan represents the spirit of America—the do or die spirit—or rather the do and do NOT DIE spirit.

It is the adventurers who have made America—the endeavourers, the do-ers.

America has been made by men who achieved the impossible—and did not know that it was impossible—nor care.

The most important thing in the world for America is to continue to produce such men—to continue to keep alive such spirit.

"Man shall not live by bread alone, but by every word that proceedeth out of the mouth of God."

Nations do not live by wealth alone, nor by numbers, nor by area, nor by resources, but by inspiration.

China is larger than the United States, but it is dying.

It has probably more natural resources than the United States, but it is dying.

It has three times the man power of the United States, but it is dying.

Nations live and grow and progress by the spirit to conceive ideals, and the courage to achieve them.

NO SHADOW of penalty should be imposed on young Mr. Corrigan for his recklessly heroic flight, not the slightest rebuke should be spoken or implied.

He should be praised and rewarded by the American Government and the American people.

He has expressed the indomitable spirit of America.

He has inspired it in others.

He has preserved the spirit of our fathers.

All hail to Young America.

May it continue like Old America, indomitable, unconquerable, unafraid.

O-O For Y-D

[And It's Pay Day]

BOURNE, July 21—Major-General Albert Blanding, chief of the National Guard Bureau in Washington, today inspected Massachusetts' 8000 rain-drenched militiamen in their encampment here.

The "war" maneuvers scheduled for yesterday, then postponed because of rain until today, definitely is "off," entirely. It rained again this forenoon, leaving the ground so wet and muddy that the militia high command gave up in disgust.

Today was payday, and the 8000 guardsmen here were receiving $300,000 in checks.

Boxing matches are scheduled for tonight, weather permitting, and a swimming meet at Mashpee pond is the principal event for tomorrow.

Calling off the war games ended the "spy scare" at the camp. Reports had been that a "mysterious horseman" visited "secret machine-gun emplacements" during the night, also that a "red-headed woman" accompanied by a civilian vanished mysteriously in the direction of equally "secret" fortifications.

That they were "foreign spies" was discounted by militia officers, who pointed out that there are no fortifications here information concerning which could have any real value.

Sally's Debut In Dual Role

DOUBLE DEBUT FOR SALLY—"Thrilled to death" and "dead from fright," Sally Clark, sister of President Roosevelt's newest daughter-in-law, today was undergoing apprehensive terrors of a double debut as singer and dancer on the Ritz Roof tonight. Jack Marshard (with her) will lead the orchestra.

Sally Clark, sister of Anne Clark, President Roosevelt's newest daughter-in-law, was testing her vocal cords and dancing steps today for a double debut tonight at the Ritz-Carlton roof—as a singer and as a danseuse.

That Sally, who forsook high society for the entertainment field, would warble throaty songs at the the hotel night spot has been known for some time, but that she would carry her charms to the dance floor is news.

MAURICE

Her legion of society friends were given an added thrill with the announcement her dancing partner will be Maurice, of the internationally famous dance team, Maurice and Cordoba.

"I am thrilled to death and I'm also almost dead of fright," Sally confided today. "I want so much to make good, to show my friends this isn't just a crazy whim."

She set her jaw in determination.

"I'm going out there and knock 'em off their feet—with both singing and dancing."

Sally will dance two numbers with Maurice. Apprised of this new feature of her debut, the Boston society girl, who is as pretty as sister Anne, got right down to work yesterday and practised the routines with Maurice for more than four hours.

SALLY CLARK

Because of the brief time permitted them for rehearsals, "Maurice and Clark" will present only waltz tango and a Pan-American dance of the rhumba type. Later when they have had more practice together, they will add a "surprise" specialty to their repertoire.

He-She Will Is Called Valid

Whether "Marshall Hoyt" of Natick was man or woman, "his" estate must go to the person to whom it was willed, it was asserted today by Attorney Alfred R. Shrigley, counsel for the woman known for 10 years as Hoyt's wife.

The Hoyt will read:

"I, Marshall Hoyt, being of sound mind, leave all personal property I own at my decease to my wife, Grace T. Hoyt."

Regardless of the outcome of the controversy over the sex of "Marshall Hoyt," claimed by relatives to have been Miss Georgiana White Wilson, the will stands, Shrigley contends.

SOLVE "MAN" MYSTERY

The mystery of "Hoyt's" status apparently was solved today when Chief of Police Thomas Evans declared in a statement that public records would permit of the designation of the deceased as male or female, or both.

It is believed that information furnished Chief Evans by Frederick A. Gibbs, Cochituate undertaker, who prepared the body for burial, caused the chief to issue his statement.

"Marshall Hoyt, whether man or woman, previous to death," said Attorney Shrigley, "willed his entire estate to Grace T. Hoyt.

"The will, in accordance with law was witnessed and signed by three persons and he was of sane mind when he signed it.

HEARING IN SEPTEMBER

"Therefore, if it be proven that Hoyt was a woman, which I doubt very strongly, under the statutes the person named in the will is entitled to the entire estate.

"The case will be heard during the September sitting of the court, at which time I hope to straighten out the entire matter."

Shrigley said his client is in Maine with friends and that she will remain in seclusion for several weeks as a result of the prominence given the case.

Maybe He'll Ask Sylvia Sidney

NEW YORK, July 21—Now sometimes if a gal is asked, then she might marry the man who asks her . . .

SYLVIA SIDNEY

And this is precisely what Sylvia Sidney, stage and screen star, said as she sailed on the Queen Mary for a month's vacation in Europe with her brown dachshund, Strudel.

The man she referred to is Luther Adler, with whom her name has been romantically linked for some time.

SYLVIA BLUSHES

His successful stage hit, "The Golden Boy," is now playing in London, and nobody would consider it a coincidence if Sylvia showed up at the theater there.

Asked if she would marry Adler, the pretty screen star blushed demurely and said:

"First you've got to be asked."

Then she added, musingly:

"Well, people have done it before, haven't they?"

And, of course, Sylvia has, for one. Publisher Bennett Cerf was her first mate.

BAD BREAK FOR STRUDEL

Sylvia, last week, completed an engagement at the Cape Playhouse, Dennis, where she played the leading role in George Bernard Shaw's "Pygmalion."

It was her first appearance in a summer theater and she enjoyed the experience. But Strudel wasn't so happy about Cape Cod. Somebody dropped a piano leg on him backstage at the Playhouse and he spent the week in a West Harwich animal hospital with a broken tail.

Lupe, Tarzan May Make Up

HOLLYWOOD, July 21 (INS)—Friends of Lupe Velez and Johnny Weissmuller hinted today that although the fiery little Mexican screen actress has filed suit for divorce, another reconciliation is possible.

Lupe accuses her screen Tarzan mate of mental cruelty and charges Johnny was guilty of violent displays of temper, at home and in public.

Shaw's 4 Dogs 'No Nuisance'

Despite the fact that he spent $2000 to keep his four Great Dane dogs inside his estate at 600 Beacon street, Newton Centre, Paul Agassiz Shaw, socialite race horse owner, found himself in Newton court today.

He was charged with violating a police restraining order, issued June 2, ruling that he must keep the dogs confined.

"Goin home past Shaw's place was the hard way," Mrs. Bruce Bear, a neighbor, testified.

"On July 13 I was walking home with Mrs. Dorothy Cobb of Waltham, when one of the dogs charged us and chased us to teh other side of the street."

In rebuttal, Shaw himself took the stand, and also his pretty wife Mrs. Betty Wightman Pope Shaw.

Paul A. Shaw

"I spent $2000 for a six-foot fence to keep my pets at home," Shaw testified. "And — why, they wouldn't hurt a child."

He pointed to two of the dogs he had brought along and left in his beach wagon outside the court. Each was occupying a full five-foot seat in the wagon.

One of the dogs, he added, cost him $2000 a short time ago.

Mrs. Pope testified that her four-year-old son played with the four dogs and belted them around without any ill results.

Judge David Nagle decided Shaw had used sufficient care to restrain his animals and dismissed the charges.

Shaw's wedding to the former Miss Pope in 1931, when he was 18 and she 19, was a major social event.

He is the son of the late Robert Gould Shaw and a member of the class of 1924 at Harvard. Mrs. Shaw, former tennis star and Junior League member, was presented to society in November, 1930.

Army Slams Lid On Secrets To Hinder Spies

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP) — War department officials disclosed today that the recent arrest of spy ring suspects in New York has been followed by a tightening of the lid on army secrets.

An official circular added "safeguarding of military information" to a standing list of nine basic functions of the army's military intelligence division.

This division, officially designated as "G-2," has charge of preparing and keeping codes, ciphers and maps, and collecting information through attaches abroad.

In line with the new caution, changes have been made in regulations requiring candidates for reserve commissions in the military intelligence to pass examinations in safeguarding secret information.

The navy previously had put into effect extraordinary similar precautions.

Publication of detailed information on the progress of war ship constructions was limited early this year. New legislation has given both services authority to regulate or prohibit picture-taking in the vicinity of military posts or war ships.

Lewis Sees Ism Peril

Novelist Says Lethargy a Curse

It CAN happen here!

It CAN—and maybe it WILL!

The only safeguard against its happening is eternal vigilance against Communism and Fascism and all the other 'isms that infest America.

That's the way Sinclair Lewis, Nobel prize author, feels about it.

Lewis is in Cohasset this week, at the "little theater" there, appearing as principal in the cast with the South Shore Players in a dramatization of his book, "It Can't Happen Here."

REAL PURPOSE OVERLOOKED

A great many readers of "It Can't Happen Here" understood the book as a warning against Communism and Fascism and other 'isms—which it was—but they overlooked its real purpose, Lewis said today.

"It's a warning against the lethargy of the American people," he explained.

"It CAN happen here—yes—but if it does happen it will be because the people are asleep. People 'don't pay much attention.' They believe the established order of things is safe, secure. It's never the great mass of the people who effect a revolution. By the time they've waked up to it, the revolution's an accomplished fact."

In his book, Lewis depicts the majority of middle-class citizens going about their daily lives, little disturbed and, apparently, little aroused by the setting up of a cruel dictatorship in America.

"Do you think that's true of the American people?" he was asked. "You don't believe patriotic citizens would rise in counter-revolt?"

SINCLAIR LEWIS

"Some of them would," he agreed. "But you can't fight modern artillery and airplanes from behind stone walls. You'd get that part of the picture as I've pictured it in my book—secret meetings, hidden printing presses, sometimes sporadic outbursts of violence.

"But the majority of people would be lethargic. Their daily lives would go on about as usual. They might grumble, but they would soon be taught not to do that.

"That's been the history of revolution—to go to both extremes—

Acts in Own Play at Cohasset

in Ireland and Germany. In Ireland it was a revolution for freedom; in Germany, a revolution to set up a dictatorship. You heard of things happening. Here in America you'd hear of things happening, too—but what's a hundred, or a thousand, or ten thousand incidents in the lives of 130,000,000 people?

"No, the great mass of the people go on 'as usual,' except perhaps where you have a situation such as exists in Spain."

PEOPLE TOO PREOCCUPIED

People are not sufficiently interested in the form their government takes; they are more interested in their immediate personal problems. It is because of this preoccupation on the part of the average citizen that revolution—a dictatorship—can sneak up on him, Lewis emphasized.

In the "little theater" production at Cohasset, Lewis takes the part of the small-town, New England editor who stands out against the dictatorship. Both book and play end with the editor and his fellow patriots still fighting, almost hopelessly.

Lewis lives in Vermont, although born in Minnesota. His family, he explains, were New Englanders.

After appearing in his own play at Cohasset he plans a trip to Europe. He will not have a new book, he said, for at least a year.

His interest in the little theater movement, he explained, dates back to Minneapolis, two or three years before he wrote "Main Street," which won him the Nobel prize. But he refused the award.

Timilty Holds Taxi Hearing

A study of Boston's taxicab business depression began today after more than 40 cab owners conferred with Police Commissioner Timilty.

John Rockett, president of the Town Taxi, suggested that fares be charged by time rather than by the mile. Others present said this would loom profit on distant trips.

Rockett's stand for drastic reduction in rates, also met with disapproval. Frank Sawyer, head of the Checker Taxi Company, and J. P. Blake, representing the drivers' union, favored reducing the number of cabs.

Under this system the double shift would avoid loss of jobs, Timilty was told.

Timilty appointed Sawyer, Rockett, Blake and George J. Naymie, treasurer of the I. T. O. A., to work out a plan.

Kelly Backers Say He's in Race To Finish

"Frank Kelly has been carrying the people's fight for a year and a half and he'll be the people's candidate for Governor on election day."

That, in substance, was the answer Lieutenant-Governor Francis E. Kelly's close friends had today for reports that recent filing of former Governor Curley's papers as a gubernatorial candidate might be taken as a forecast of Kelly's withdrawal.

Said one Kelly backer, generally credited with inside knowledge of the lieutenant-governor's plans:

"Kelly isn't interested in any non-elective jobs, no matter how good they sound.

"There's talk around about how Kelly could have had a life-tenure position, with honor and an ample salary.

"You'll hear, too, that Kelly could name his own cash price for dropping out of the governorship race. But here's one sure thing:

"Kelly is going through in the governorship fight. He'll be elected."

U. S. Studies Heavier Tax On Incomes

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Roswell Magill, acting Secretary of the Treasury, announced today the administration was studying the feasibility of lowering personal income tax exemptions.

He declined to say whether he, or other officials, favored a reduction, but said the subject was "certainly" one being studied in preparing broad tax revision proposals to be submitted to the next Congress.

In recent years, Congress has repeatedly defeated efforts by Senator LaFollette to cut the exemption for single persons from $1000 to $800 and for heads of families from $2500 to $2000.

As announced previously by President Roosevelt, the Treasury also is studying suggestions for changes in the undistributed profits taxe and the capital gains tax.

Magill added that in addition the Treasury was looking into methods of carrying out Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation for taxing the salaries of federal, state and local government employes and bond interest on future issues of federal, state and local securities.

Says Husband Beat Her

SALEM, July 21—He refused to buy face powder for her, was one of Mrs. Elizabeth M. Madore's allegations of cruelty against John L. Madore in probate court here today in her suit for separate support.

Her husband, she further testified, went out with "six or seven" other women, kept company with a night club entertainer in Lawrence, got drunk and came home and beat her.

They have four children.

Madore, contesting the suit, charged Mrs. Madore went out with other men.

Judge John Costello took the case under advisement.

GRUNDY, Va., July 21 (AP)—It was a hot day and the glassy pool by the roadside looked inviting to two pigs walking by. They splashed in.

Their grunts of pleasure, however, later turned into squeals of surprise when the setting sun chilled the surface of the pool. Instead of black mud the pool was—tar.

Reinstated Teacher Back Home

MARJORIE E. FRYE

LEICESTER, July 21—Attractive Miss Marjorie E. Frye, 27-year-old Leicester high school teacher who won her fight for reinstatement, returned to Leicester today for the first time since her Supreme Court victory last month.

"Of course I'm pleased," she said. "And I'm settling down for a long bout with my books so I'll be ready for classes."

Leicester high students staged a "strike" in protest against the school committee's failure in 1936 to reappoint her after three years' service.

She carried the fight to the Supreme Court, which issued a writ ordering the committee to continue her as a teacher. The court held her three years' service established her tenure as a teacher.

She has been vacationing with a sister, Ruth, in Nyack, N. Y.

2 Kidnapers Hunted Here

Police, with orders to "shoot on sight," conducted an intensive but vain hunt here today for two escaped Maine convicts and kidnapers.

A tip that men, answering the descriptions of the fugitives, had been seen getting off a bus in Charlestown sent eight police cruising cars and 30 officers to that district.

No trace of the hunted men was found, although authorities still believed them possibly in Boston or headed here.

Supporting that theory was the story told Maine police by Mrs. Harriet Johnson and Mrs. Francis T. Berry, both of Gardiner, Me.

They said Convicts Andrew Gallagher and Alfred Labonte, fugitives from the Thomaston State Prison, kidnaped them in a stolen auto, forced them to show the way to Wiscasset, then released them, after talking about seeking a Boston "hide-out."

Official Sees That Corner Here

WASHINGTON, July 21 (AP)—Acting Secretary J. Monroe Johnson of the Commerce Department says industry has turned the recovery corner.

"Improvement is more than psychological," Johnson said. "There are now definite figures to bear out earlier promises.

Doug Ships Jalopy Home

ire with the speed and ecstasy of a small boy taking apart an alarm clock, but with the delicacy of a Swiss watchmaker handling the most expensive chronometer on earth.

"BREAK" FOR CORRIGAN

"Boy, this is fine!" he exclaimed, "Look how clean she is."

"How is she going back?" I asked.

"By the Lehigh, leaving at 5 p. m.," he answered. "I haven't much time. I gotta hurry."

This was what Corrigan called "the best break I have had since I landed," and he meant the liberation of his plane from the hands of customs authorities, who had held it since he dropped out of the skies here a few days ago.

ot the "break" through assistance of the highest governmental authority in Eire, President Douglas Hyde, and the chief executive was the last man at Baldonnel aerodrome to see the famous airplane intact.

SHOWS DR. HYDE PLANE

I had just alighted from an airplane from Paris and was walking off Baldonnel when a small car drove up. A military attache jumped out, followed by a heavy man in an ulster greatcoat, a cap pulled over his tousled grey hair and with a long walrus mustache waving in the wind.

That was Douglas the President, and behind him came his "namesake"—Douglas Corrigan.

His slight figure looked boyish next to that of the bulky President. Corrigan wore neither coat nor hat.

Walking toward the hangar where the ship rested, Corrigan said:

"Come here, sir, and I will show her to you."

Surrounded by a military guard of high officers of the Irish Air Force, the two Douglases entered the hangar. Corrigan looked tiny beside the big men in uniform, and the contrast was made stronger by their respectful attitude to his modest explanation.

HYDE DUMBFOUNDED

The president stared at what must be the strangest instrument board on any airplane still functioning. Below each of the scant half-dozen dials Corrigan had scratched with a penknife in the battered surface indicators such as "On" and "Off."

"But where's your oil supply indicator?" asked one air officer.

"Here," answered Corrigan, turning a little brass stock—the kind boys use to build toy steam engines.

'And how did you see out this thing," the President asked incredulously, peering through a dim window about the size of a sheet of writing paper. "You mustn't have been able to look ahead at all.

SHOWS HOW HE LANDS

"Oh, yes, all I had to do was tip her this way," Corrigan said, gesturing sideways. "Then I'd straighten her out like this," and he waved his arms like a bird.

Only Corrigan's arms gave any idea of the strength that must be in a body that stood up under 29 hours of ocean flying and came out—as an air officer who met him expressed it—"As fresh as an Irish daisy." Corrigan's arms are as wiry as those of a boxer.

President Hyde paused wonderingly in front of the little old-fashioned monoplane and examined the motor. At every joint, the motor bonnet had been welded, so the whole thing was a mass of scars.

"He did it himself," an airport mechanic said, "he's an acetylene welder by trade."

"But I still don't understand how you could land without being able to see ahead," the President persisted.

"Oh, that's easy, sir. I just tip her like I told you, catch a glimpse and sail ahead, and then tip her once more. I know where the ground is and I put her down."

OFFICER LAUDS LANDING

"And how!" exclaimed an officer who had watched him land.

"There was a difference between the way he put her down and the way most of them do when they come in here from their transatlantic trips," he continued. "We got tired of carrying them off the field.

"They always used to crack up, but not this one. He came in like a regular mail plane and we paid no attention to him at first. We just thought he wanted some oil and petrol."

"But what do you do when you have a tree in front of you and you can't see it?" persisted Dr. Hyde, still loath to believe that anyone could guide such an airplane.

"Well, sir, if I couldn't see it I would hit it," Corrigan replied.

CALLS FOR TOOLS

Then, as Dr. Hyde took his leave, he shouted:

"Now, where are my tools. We've got to get this thing in a crate quick, as the ship is leaving."

"Here are my tools," Corrigan said, producing a greasy little black canvas sack about the size of a lady's handbag.

"Are those all the tools you have?" someone asked.

"Sure; what more do you want?" he replied.

Whereupon Corrigan produced a hammer and a pair of pliers and started to unbutton his plane, with the words:

"See, this is the way to do it."

Off came a bit of hay-wire here and another bit there. From curious recesses of the plane he uncovered bolts and took off nuts and soon had a box full. At his direction, mechanics began to explore and find other nuts and bolts hitherto hidden from their expert eyes.

GETS OIL ON CLEAN PANTS

Meanwhile, Corrigan had ducked beneath the motor and soon was heard to shout:

"Hey, this funnel won't work. It's running over."

"But, sir, you should not have used that funnel. It's stopped up," a mechanic said respectfully.

"Oh, I'm sorry," the flier murmured ruefully, as oil began to run down his trousers and on the floor.

He was weaering the same pair of grey checked trousers and grey shirt in which he arrived, but had had them cleaned and wore a nice new reddish cravat, all in honor of the President.

Corrigan suddenly broke off and turned to the packers:

""A're they going to turn this bus upside down then they get her in the p.ate?"

"No, she'll be kept right side up," was the reply.

"That's fine," he said, "because if you turned her upside down something might fall out."

SCRAPS OF MAP FOUND

All the Irish agreed that almost better than the flight itself was the Irish joke with which Corrigan crowne dit by announcing he had flown the ocean by mistake. They have not told Corrigan, but they found enough scraps of a map on a strut of the tail of his machine to piece out the route he had sketched.

It was not a map for a flight to California. One scrap I saw contained a bit of the coast of Maine and beyond it a stretch of the Atlantic Ocean, with pencil marks outlining the beginning of the Great Circle course. This was found clinging to the tail, but Corrigan has his story, and he's sticking to it.

Heir-Minded Fliers

son is decided, the mother being now only 27 years old and the father, Boston and Newport flier, a year younger.

Lilias and Johnson, a Williams College graduate, were married in July, 1934, three months after she had divorced Crocker Snow, socially prominent Boston flier and polo player and the man who had taught her to fly.

Under the will, she is given "Ridgemere," beautiful residence of her grandmother in Leroy avenue, Newport, as well as 40 per cent of the residuary estate, which is in the form of trust fund.

Her father George Andrews Moriarty, receives an outright bequest of $50,000 and the Moriarty Colonial residence in Bristol, R. I., where Lafayette once made his headquarters during the American Revolution.

Ten years ago, Lilias was picked as "America's most fascinating sports girl," by a committee composed of John Barrymore, Cornelius Vanderbilt and F. Scott Fitzgerald.

Roosevelt Nears Island Menace In Pacific

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, En Route to Panama, July 21 (AP)—The cruiser Houston, carrying President Roosevelt and his fishing companions on a vacation jaunt down the Pacific, clipped along at 21 knots today toward French-owned Clipperton Island, poorly charted and a danger to navigation.

The island, lying 670 miles off the Mexican mainland on a line between Hawaii and Panama, consists of a low coral ring of sand-like appearance, varying in width from a few yards to a quarter of a mile and rising from the sea to a height of five to 14 feet.

Ships are warned that the island is dangerous to navigate, even under the most favorable conditions. Mariners are urged to approach Clipperton with great caution.

Press for News Is N. E. Choice

Radio has failed in its battle to take the newspaper's place in New England homes.

That was the consensus of opinion of the New England Association of Circulation Managers, expressed by President George E. Sullivan of the Fall River Herald News in his annual report today at their convention in Watch Hill, R. I.

"It is amazing," said Sullivan's report, "to find that a great many newspapers have increased their price per copy without appreciable loss of circulation or goodwill.

"But most amazing of all is that they were able to do it during a period of national depression when other businesses were cutting prices.

"To me this means that the importance of the press in the home today has increased despite the attempt of radio to submerge it by frequent presentation of news."

The convention will close this afternoon.

Boy, 14, Favors Father, School

PROVIDENCE, R. I., July 21—Following the choice offered him in Superior Court, 14-year-old Irving Stanley Dunn, 2nd, today forsook a home with his mother and began to live with his father for the sake of his education.

Custody of the boy was sought by Stanley M. Dunn of Woonsocket, who stated Irving would be able to attend St. George's School at Newport if he were made guardian.

After a talk with Judge Herbert L. Carpenter, the boy decided to go with his father. For several years he lived in Enfield with his mother, Mrs. Ruth A. Dunn. The parents were divorced nine years ago.

Injured by Fall In Path of Auto

Henry T. Brady, 55, of Medford street, Charlestown, received a fractured hip early today when, according to police, he slipped from a safety island on Chelsea drawbridge and fell in the path of an automobile.

John Crehan, 34, of Chester avenue, Chelsea, driver of the car, took the injured man to Chelsea Naval Hospital.

O'CONNELL WINS

HELENA, Mont., July 21 (AP)—Representative Jerry J. O'Connell, winner of the Democratic congressional nomination, held a lead of 6293 votes today over his nearest opponent in final unofficial figures.

Dishes for a King (and Queen)

And They Only Have 45 Minutes For Super 3-Hour Spread

VERSAILLES, France, July 21 (AP)—The ten best French chefs combined their culinary skill today to fete King George VI and Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain.

The result was something to marvel at.

The gastronomic highlight of the three-day royal visit of state, served in the brilliant hall of mirrors of Louis XIV, made every French restaurateur and gourmet sigh with envy.

The experts burned with shame, too.

The royal program allowed only 45 minutes for the super-meal, and to do it justice, they said, would take at least three hours.

This is the menu:

Les perles fraiches de sterlet (caviar flown specially from Moscow).

Le melon frappe (iced melon) with Amontillado grande reserve sherry.

Les delices du Lac D'Annecy a la Nantu (delights of the Lake of Annecy in Nantua fashion—in other words, salmon trout with crayfish accompanied with Le Chevalier Montrachet 1926 white Burgundy).

Les mignonettes de d'agneau trianon (small chops of young lamb with mixed vegetables) with a red Burgundy—a magnum of Chateau de la Mission Haut Brion 1920.

STUFFED QUAIL

La timbale de cailles farcies a la Talleyrand (quail stuffed with fois gras). The wine: Hospice de Beaune Cuvee Charlotte Dumay 1915, a red Burgundy so rare that it is always sold only by auction.

Les aiguillettes de caneton Rouennai, a la Montmorency avec salade gauloise (sliced breast of rouen duck with green peas and mixed salad). With this course there were three wines—le Corton Grancey 1919, a red Burgundy; a magnum of Chateau Mouton Rothschild 1918, a red Bordeaux called the "king of wines"; le Granite au Lanson 1921, which is iced champagne.

Le supreme de poularde de bresse au beurre oisette avec les pointes d'asperge a l'etuvee (creamed chicken served with drawn butter and creamed asparagus tips) served with a sweet white Bordeaux wine, Chateau Yquem 1921.

STILL GOING STRONG

Les truffles a la mode de Perigord (Perigord truffles). A red Bordeaux, Latour 1904, accompanied it.

La mousse glacee Singapour, les peches de Montreuil princesse, le frivolites (iced fruit cream, iced Montreuil and cakes).

Champagnes: Magnum of Pol Roger 1911, magnum of G. H. Mumm 1911, Louis Roederer 1904, Veuve Cliquot 1900 (the year in which Queen Elizabeth was born) and Pommery 1895 (year of King George's birth). These wines are so rare they are to be found seldom outside private cellars.

12 GLASSES APIECE

The vegetables were grown specially out of season at Limoges and flown to Versailles this morning in two planes.

Table baskets containing cakes were made of woven straws of sugar tied with sugar ribbons in the French and British colors.

Each guest had 12 crystal glasses for wines, some of which may never be drunk again except by private owners who opened their cellars for the occasion at President Lebrun's request.

Radio Official Dead in Crash

WEST ORANGE, N. J., July 21 (AP)—John C. Warner, 41, of Verona, a vice president of the Radio Corporation of America, was found dead today in the wreckage of his automobile.

Police said Warner's car had climbed a 10-foot embankment and turned over twice but they believed Warner may have been dead of a heart attack before the accident.

New Anglo-Nazi Talks Hinted By Chamberlain

LONDON, July 21 (AP)—Prime Minister Chamberlain told the House of Commons today that Britain had received from Chancellor Hitler's confidential envoy renewed assurances of the German government "of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

The Prime Minister said these assurances had been given to Viscount Halifax by Captain Fritz Wiedemann, Hitler's representative.

Chamberlain gave this reply to a question as to what was discussed at Monday night's confidential discussion between Lord Halifax and Hitler's envoy:

"In the course of his recent visit to London, Captain Wiedemann had an informal conversation with the secretary.

"Captain Weidmann was able to renew assurances already given by the German government of their desire to achieve a peaceful settlement of outstanding questions."

The statement was interpreted as indication Wiedemann's visit might lead to reopening of negotiations for a broad Anglo-German political settlement.

One of the most difficult questions involved is that of Czechoslovakia's Germanic minority, over which Hitler has declared himself "protector."

Parade Before King George

PARIS, July 21 (AP)—France paraded her newest war machines for the first time today to demonstrate to King George VI of Britain the strength she can lend to their common cause.

For more than an hour, infantry, cavalry and artillery regiments—the flower of the French army—swung by the stand.

King George, in the tunic of a field marshal, and President Albert Lebrun of France reviewed the colorful columns of marching men, totaling 50,000, supported by hundreds of tanks and about 50 airplanes.

Queen Elizabeth and Mme. Lebrun arrived later by special train and were accompanied by mounted Spahis to the Versailles Chateau to attend a sumptuous luncheon.

Throngs Pass Palace Bier Of Queen Marie

BUCHAREST, July 21 (AP)—The body of Dowager Queen Marie of Roumania was placed today in the royal palace to lie in state until the funeral Sunday.

It was brought to Bucharest by motor from Sinaia, the royal summer residence where the Queen died Monday at her 63rd year.

In Bucharest, the Queen's favorite possessions were exhibited near her coffin. Among them were a portrait of herself by Philip De Laszlo, some old Russian lace and her jewels.

Long lines of people formed to view her body. Authorities expected more than 5,000 to pass by it today.

King Carol and Crown Prince Michael, her son and grandson, attended a requiem at Sinaia, for the last time since her death.

Thousands of gasoline crowded streets as the ceiling was lifted to a high figure, partial cards being issued only to those who were drawn to funeral services by sentiment.

It was decided with huge wreaths and the family crest [illegible] the bier. Over which was drawn the red velvet [illegible]

Her 50 Hours Lost In Woods Was Fun

EAST RICHFORD, Vt., July 21—Rescued from a cold, lonely mountainside over which she had wandered lost for 50 hours, Mrs. Cort Bell, 76-year-old farmer's wife, was happy today because:

"I've got a swell story to tell my friends. A deer ran by me and I saw a porcupine."

Suffering from a minor back injury and a cut foot Mrs Bell told a rescuing posse she had "lived on berries," used a stone for a pillow and stars for a blanket.

The aged woman became lost when she went in search of her dog.

"I was scared at first," she related, "but then all of a sudden I wasn't scared at all."

She beat her way through the raw, thick underbrush to a spot near Glen Sutton, Que., three miles from her home, where she was found by the searching party.

"After a while it was fun," she said. "I saw two bears, a hedgehog and a snake. The bears were just as frightened as I was. They ran.

"It was kind of cold at night without wraps and the wet woods soaked my clothes, but I didn't notice it too much. I must have slept late Wednesday morning, because when I woke up my clothes were dry.

"I fell off a ten-foot ledge and into a ravine. It was almost dark then. That's when I hurt my back.

"I was only wearing rubbers over my stockings. One of the rubbers came off and I couldn't find it. I ran across an old burlap bag. I just wrapped it around my foot and kept on."

Court to Give Babs Custody of Her Son

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, July 21 (INS)—Terms of a "crown separation" between Count and Countess Haugwitz-Reventlow have been drawn up and may be signed today, International News Service learned.

The separation agreement will give Countess Barbara custody of their two-year-old son Lance and the freedom the American heiress desires pending receipt of a divorce in Denmark.

Only last-minute objections by the count, which are not expected, can now keep Barbara from gaining complete victory in her struggle to have her marital affairs adjusted without further publicity.

COUNT TO SEE BOY

The count has bowed to Barbara's demands for a separation, and has permitted solicitors on both sides to proceed with drafting of a separation document, on condition that the agreement include a provision permitting him to see his son from time to time.

Count Kurt also requested the right to be consulted regarding Lance's upbringing, but this is one of the points which has not yet been definitely settled.

Barbara will have custody of the child, and she has agreed to establish a large trust fund for him, which will make certain that the boy will never be in want and will be in a position to adopt any career when the time comes for him to [illegible] irrespective of the countess personal [illegible]

PAVES DIVORCE ROAD

Whether Barbara has made any other financial [illegible] particularly with regard to the count has not been disclosed.

Solicitors on both sides are holding what they [illegible] and countess both hope will be the final meeting today, and then the draft agreement will be presented to the count and countess for their signatures.

A "crown separation" under Danish law, paves the way for a divorce by mutual agreement within 18 months.

Non-Stop Tells of Compass Twist

Completely tested after his gruelling solo flight from New York to Dublin in his nine year old, $500 monoplane, Douglas Corrigan herewith gives the first detailed account of his unheralded non-stop transatlantic jaunt.

DUBLIN, July 21—It sounds screwy, I admit, that I, with 13 years of experience in aeronautics, shouldn't know east from west. But it is true.

My compass certainly went haywire. It is a "Pioneer Straightaway" compass which every American airman knows has 360 degrees marked circularly.

WHY, OF COURSE — Doug Corrigan, ocean-hopper, who still sticks to his original story that he flew from New York to Ireland by "mistake." He's standing beside wonder plane in which he made flight.

Crackup 'Made' Corrigan Flier

(Editor's Note—Following is the third of a series of articles on the interesting but little known life of Douglas Corrigan, the amazing "mistake" Atlantic flier.)

By RALPH B. JORDAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LOS ANGELES, July 21 (INS) — A "line squall," dreaded peril that besets fliers in the air, nearly ended the aviation career of Douglas Corrigan before it had fairly begun.

"You're not a flier till you've cracked up at least one plane," is an adage well known among air pilots.

ESCAPE INJURY

"Douglas didn't know as much about line squalls then as he knows now, else he would have avoided the encounter," his uncle, the Rev. S. Fraser Langford, says.

CUSTOMERS

A MESSAGE ON SUBSTITUTION

The manufacturers of all outstanding products have had to contend, at one time or another, with the evils of substitution. Recently complaints have been received that a few short-sighted and unscrupulous dealers have violated their duty to the public by substituting less expensive Ales for PICKWICK ALE, the product of Haffenreffer & Co., Inc. The great majority of dealers join with us in a determined effort to eliminate substitution, and agents of the Alcoholic Beverages Control Commission have also been vigilant in bringing offenders to trial.

Many of our customers have learned that the distinctive taste of PICKWICK ALE enables them at once to detect the substitution. Therefore we urge you to remember this taste as a safeguard against substitution. Cooperation of this sort by our customers will afford the best form of protection against this dishonest and illegal practice.

When next you order a glass of PICKWICK ALE, first, be sure the dealer draws the Ale from the official PICKWICK ALE tap; second, make certain that the taste of the Ale served you has that character and flavor by which PICKWICK ALE is recognized. By so doing you will not only be protecting yourself against substitution, but also acting in the interests of fair dealing.

'Franzi' Seen At Try-out

By PEGGY DOYLE

"Franzi" which the Farragut Players are giving a try-out production this week at Rye Beach for J. J. Shubert is one of those opened by mistake packages that are becoming somewhat of a leg on the summer-theater market this season.

Described as an intimate musical comedy, "Franzi" has been adapted from the Hungarian of Ladislaus Bus Fekete by Isham Gilbert with lyrics by Gilbert and music by Ale Farkasy.

Helen Ford, who has enjoyed a pleasant career in musical comedy as the featured player, Miriam Battista and Ronald Hague of the Players permanent company and Ale Morrison who called last winter with the Continental orchestra at Manhattan's Regis Hotel are immediately set.

The tryout post of "Franzi" is considered with Lenore Wagner, a Mae Westian ex-chorus girl who deserted her husband and child for an actor who got a daughter by him without benefit of clergy and has now reformed herself into her successful present as a mother.

Miss Ford, Franzi of the piece, has very little assistance from her supporting cast which may be some excuse for the nervous mannerisms that mar her performance. She must evidence every now and then through the authority of her rating of her thorough stage experience and given some support directions would have turned in a more creditable performance.

There are a few remarkable scenes in "Franzi" and "The Count Who Invented Love" are most amusing and in the latter Miss Ford displays distinction and [illegible] with some [illegible] the hit [illegible] about a king and a [illegible] to be good.

New Play for Owen Davis, Jr.

If he gets his hope Owen Davis Jr., will be starring on Broadway this fall in a play specially written for him by his father.

The noted playwright has notified his agents that the production, titled "It's Never Orange," is ready to go into rehearsal for an August tryout at the Lakewood Theatre Skowhegan and as soon as young Davis is get there.

The two are already working with Tom Howard, Mary Carlisle and Robert Cummings in "Forchilan Army" West Point football picture will begin rehearsal on Skowhegan as soon as he can get here from Paramount!

Olympia Gets 'Three Comrades'

"Three Comrades," post-war drama co-starring Robert Taylor, Franchot Tone, Robert Young and Margaret Sullavan, will top the Washington St. Olympia screen bill starting Saturday. The companion attraction will be MGM's "Hold That Kid!," featuring Maureen O'Sullivan, Deanna O'Keefe, and Mickey Rooney.

'Candida' Set At Nantucket

Violet Heming, in George Bernard Shaw's "Candida", with Morgan Farley as Marchbanks, will be the attraction at the Nantucket Playhouse, Siasconset, Friday and Sunday evenings.

'Tough Guy' at Keiths

A street-scene drama featuring the famous "Dead End" kids, "Little Tough Guy," is the major attraction on the Keith Memorial screen this week. Helen Parrish, Jackie Searl and Robert Wilcox are importantly cast in this Brenda Weisberg-Gilson Brown story.

It is the story of what happens to a mother, son and daughter when the father is sent to prison and the family moves to a seedy tenement district. The boy, Billy Halop, becomes involved with a gang of young hoodlums. Embittered by his father's conviction he assumes leadership of "the mob," is captured while attempting a theater holdup, sent with others in the youthful gang, to reform school.

Helen Parrish the "meanie" of Deanna Durbin's film, "Mad About Music," has the role of the sister. Robert Wilcox is seen as her loyal friend. Marjorie Main is said to do some exceptional acting as the mother. Harold Young directed.

The Walt Disney Revue second attraction presents the newest and latest of the color cartoons by the creator of "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs." Keith management regards as a distinct scoop this booking of over 40 minutes of Disney cartoons, including "Wynken Blynken and Nod," "Mickey's Trailer," "The Moth and the Flame" and "The Fox Hunt."

BOSTON AMERICAN

BOSTON, THURSDAY, JULY 21, 1933

What Will Be Next?

The Editor Says: Nelson Harding's amusing cartoon interests all newspaper readers, especially those that ridicule the hazards of transatlantic flying.

It is true, courageous Douglas P. Corrigan's extraordinary performance in a nine-year-old, single-engined plane did make flights to Europe appear "easy."

But—and it is well to remember the fact—appearances are often deceiving, particularly so to the man who views aviation from the security of his arm-chair.

Corrigan is a skilled mechanic, strong physically and alert mentally. It was no accident that his motor functioned perfectly for long hours over water often five miles deep.

Countless hours of work and planning assured its perfection before the journey that began in California and ended in Ireland.

Few have that training and ability. Certainly not the type of flier that Cartoonist Harding facetiously depicts as a boy on a winged scooter going to Europe.

We are proud of Corrigan, every one of us. We shall honor him as the hero he has proved himself to be. And that is proper.

But let us not stretch our admiration to the point of imitation and try to duplicate his marvelous feat, thus endangering our own lives and injuring the cause of aviation generally.

Winged scooters do not span oceans; neither do planes that resemble scooters.

"WEB OVER WASHINGTON" is the appropriate text that Donald E. Keyhoe and John Jay Daly have given one of the most startling and thought-provoking pictures ever printed in this country.

It appears in the Hearst "International-Cosmopolitan" Magazine for August, and it is a double page spider's web, the center of which is the dome of the Capitol of Washington.

The threads run to the borders of the two pages. On these borders appear the faces of seventeen spies of all nations—INCLUDING OUR OWN. They are all making notes, telephoning or holding field glasses directed at the national capitol.

They are the spinners of the webs of INTRIGUE PROPAGANDA and SUBVERSIVE TEACHINGS that are gradually enmeshing our national life.

There are, according to Authors Keyhoe and Daly, 120,000 foreign spies and their "American" confederates now working in this country.

"In the varied groups of agents," they say, "are the OGPU and the Cheka, Nazi storm-troopers with Gestapo connections, spies linked with the Kumitau Kyoku, 'observers' of an unofficial system extending to agents of other nations.

"Under the master strategists are thousands of organizers, propagandists, informers, 'message boxes' and potential saboteurs."

To combat these web-spinners with a counter-espionage system we have allotted a sum so small that it "would not finance a third-rate WPA project."

Our Government MUST wake up to the fact that something more than talk and investigations are necessary to break this web that may some day attempt to choke us to death.

The Political Parade

BY GEORGE ROTHWELL BROWN

WASHINGTON, July 21.

IT WOULD be a pity if Lowell Mellett should submit to the President, on his return, a report on "The Nation's No. 1 Problem," based on a personal once-over.

A survey of the South's underprivileged might be made by telephone much more satisfactorily.

This writer has just completed a trip through the Southeastern States, and spent some days among the mountain folk, who are supposed to be the No. 1 Problem of the nation's serious problems.

THERE ARE two kinds of mountain folks, and they look so much alike no mere tourist, not even a trained coordinator and eminent sociologist like Mr. Mellett could be expected to tell them apart.

The Tennessee and Carolina mountains—and this probably holds true as to Kentucky, are filled with people wearing cheap cotton pants, hickory shirts, and suspenders of the "one gallus" variety, when they wear any.

The gals wear slacks, bob their hair, and the careful observer will note that their finger nails are red.

Some of 'em are real, sure 'nuff mountaineers, the kind who speak the language of Queen Elizabeth and Bill Shakespeare, and some of them are trailer tourists, who have sought the impenetrable mountain fastness, and gone native in a big way.

* * *

NOW, both of these classes of mountaineers have this in common—both are in the mountains because they'd rather be there than anywhere else!

Tell them they're a problem, and then run for cover! And be quick about it, too. These people are sensitive.

In almost any remote glen, in and around the great smokies, one will find these mountaineers. Some have cabins on the rocks, some have them on wheels, but they are brothers and sisters under the skin.

You will come upon the city mountaineer, cooking his dinner over an open fire, his wife and children giving first aid.

* * *

SO WHAT? (as Bugs Baer would say) So the answer is that there are thousands of well-to-do Americans who love to get into the wilderness, love it from the same instincts which prompt those born there to cling to it, to pine away and die when separated from it.

Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

WHY waste your tears on the girl a man should have married, and didn't? Save them for the one he should NOT have married—and did.

AFTER a love-affair has gone dead, a woman is the world's worst pessimist. No matter how light or foolish the romance may have been, it leaves a sore spot in her vanity that she feels sure will never be healed.

A MAN, on the contrary, is an optimist who always believes that there'll be another girl, another moon, another day. When a little romance has had a blow-out, Fate is usually hanging around with a "spare."

What of Today, Tomorrow?

Spectroscope Strong Enemy of Crime

The modern criminal is intelligent.

He may lack moral courage, whether it be about carrying a gun or facing the world honestly.

But TODAY he is streamlined in his methods of evading the law. The law, in turn, must adjust itself and pursue new experiments in criminal investigation.

No better authority on modern criminology in the East can be found than Dr. Joseph T. Walker, state police chemist, who, following a week at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology Spectroscopic Conference, reports here (for the first time) what he is doing with an amazing gadget which TOMORROW will aid in trapping Massachusetts criminals—no matter how smart.

By WILLIAM MICHELFELDER

Boston Evening American Staff Writer

A few months ago, Dr. Joseph T. Walker, state police chemist, was asked to dunk his spectroscopic gadget in a cup of stale coffee.

Investigators brought him the coffee and the story of a woman who said her husband was bent on poisoning her.

What is a spectrograph?

It's a sort of scientific detective. If you own a gas-operated refrigerator (or a Bunsen burner from the laboratory) you ought to look at the tiny flame with an ORDINARY PRISM.

You will see a succession of colored images of the flame. That series is called the SPECTRUM of the flame.

Dr. Walker sniffed the stale coffee and set it down on a glass before his spectroscope. WHICH DETERMINES THROUGH ITS PRISM LENS, THE IDENTITY OF INGREDIENTS IN A LIQUID BY RADIATIONS OF DIFFERENT COLORS FROM EACH INGREDIENT IN THAT LIQUID.

Dr. Walker

All bodies, no matter how small they are, must emit one of these radiations, Dr. Walker said:

"Under ordinary circumstances chemical analysis frequently takes time AND OFTEN FAILS TO UNCOVER TINY PARTICLES IN A SOLUTION."

The lady-to-be-poisoned told police a sour husband had been feeding her pungent coffee for two months. Dr. Walker tasted the stuff and realized immediately it was not pure coffee.

ROUTINE CHEMICAL ANALYSIS REVEALED SULPHURIC ACID, DEADLY POISONOUS, IN THE COFFEE.

Then Dr. Walker turned on the spectroscope and discovered:

"There was a trace of copper in the acid and obvious evidence of lead and other metals, each of which reflected THEIR OWN PARTICULAR LIGHT IN COLOR.

"I immediately went to the woman's garage and found that sulphuric acid was missing from the storage battery in her car.

"CONFRONTED WITH THIS EVIDENCE SHE BROKE DOWN AND CONFESSED THAT SHE PUT THE ACID IN THE COFFEE HERSELF TO 'BUILD UP' GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE.

"I believe this one case establishes the value of the spectroscope in criminal investigation.

"THE DISCOVERY OF THE IMPURITIES WAS MORE SIGNIFICANT THAN THE PRESENCE OF THE ACID ITSELF.

"The chemical laboratory serving a police organization is called to handle problems of an extremely varied and unusual nature.

"In the course of a typical day, one may receive one-half dozen quart jars filled with human organs to be analyzed for small traces of poison. On another case, one must examine the surface of a cold chisel for an INVISIBLE AMOUNT OF FOREIGN METAL.

"Then again, a pair of trousers with traces of a strange dust on the knees; or paint from a car involved in a hit and run accident; blood stains on a knife, or a pellet of lead from a body; or ashes from an incendiary fire; or broken fragments from an unknown burglar's tool, or residues from a scene of an explosion.

"TIME IS ESSENTIAL IN SCIENTIFIC CRIMINAL INVESTIGATION.

"The medical examiner who has submitted the organs must have the results of the analysis before he reports the death. The police officer who has submitted the cold chisel may be holding the suspect PENDING THE OUTCOME OF THE ORDINARY CHEMICAL EXAMINATION.

"IN EVERY INSTANCE I HAVE DISCOVERED THAT, IN MY DEPARTMENT, TIME HAS BEEN SAVED BY THE SPECTROSCOPE, WHICH INVARIABLY HELPS US TO APPREHEND CRIMINALS.

"In the course of a recent investigation by the state police officers, there was difficulty arriving at a conclusion about who the culprit was responsible for a vandalism act.

"RED PAINT WAS USED.

"Several suspects possessed similar paints. The spectroscope showed a comparison between the paints involved and the paint from suspects were each of different origin.

"LESS THAN AN HOUR WAS NEEDED TO TRACE THE NATURE OF THE PAINT USED FOR THE ACT AND WHERE IT ORIGINATED.

"The suspect at first denied any connection with the offense but, in court, pleaded guilty and was sentenced.

"NO TIME WAS WASTED IN NEEDLESS CROSS-EXAMINATION OF THE SUSPECT. THE CASE WAS SOLVED IN AN HOUR.

"I BELIEVE THAT THE SPECTROSCOPE SHOULD BE USED EXTENSIVELY AND, FROM EXPERIENCE, I KNOW IT HAS HELPED THE MASSACHUSETTS STATE POLICE IN SOLVING PUZZLING CRIMES."

(Another TODAY and TOMORROW feature will appear in tomorrow's Boston Evening American).

Nearly all the summer theaters have paying patrons, but few of them need angels. They pay their way.

It's a little world of its own, the world of the summer theater group. Fiction writers haven't discovered it, but it has as much color in its way as Broadway. The actresses may be stage-struck daughters of wealthy farmers or poor girls who come to make the grade in New York. The actors may be young college men or boys of twenty-one who have had a year of "Yale."

In some towns summer theater patrons used the hardiness of players in the time of Shakespeare when actors were considered on a par with tinkers, strolling vagabonds. Watches were rocked in and the artists heard with whispers of objected to the person played.

Now the directors have become steady customers!

Boston After Dark

By HENRY L. DAILY

Exclusive:

Take this one from your straw hat band before you throw it away.

Bank Commissioner William P. Husband, Jr., will be appointed chairman of the Public Utilities Commission succeeding J. Burke Sullivan, who moves into the attorney general's office.

HENRY L. DAILY

And it wasn't the man in the moon who told me that a gentleman by the name of Osgood, who is seen going in and out of the First National Bank building on Milk street, every day, will be our next bank commissioner.

These shifts in the official family of Governor Hurley will take place before Labor Day. Dovetailing into the above is also the prediction that a new president will be named to one of the subsidiary banks of a prominent bank not far from the Charles River, on the Cambridge side. This change, however, may not take place until after January 5 next year.

Exclusive:

They're moving in again. Two ace investigators from Washington will arrive within two weeks to confer with local agents of the Intelligence Unit of the Internal Revenue Bureau on a "matter of grave importance."

The conference is said to involve some 30 or more men of prominence in the political and contracting field. It will concern court action also against some so-called political lawyers for their alleged part in assisting the "30 or more" in suggesting methods of defrauding the government out of thousands of dollars in the making out of income tax reports. It is known that a series of conferences have been held in Washington on a multiplicity of reports made by the Boston agents and that the time for action on the alleged "irregularities" has been suggested by the powers that be.

Seems as though I recall that a somewhat similar situation presented itself about two years ago when a state political campaign was in progress.

Looking Backwards:

I ran across "Jim" Lamb the other day on the street. He was one of the original sparks in Boston. We chatted a bit about fires and firemen. I asked him if he remembered the season and the seven conflagrations. He replied that he did.

"But say my boy," he added, "you haven't seen any fires yet. How about the Kingston street fire when Lieut. Eagan, caught in the upper floor of the burning Brown-Durrell building, went hand over hand on a wire stretched from the blazing dry goods house to a structure across the street and, when in the center of the street, dropped into a fireman's hold by his comrades.

"Lieut. Eagan later met his death in the Merrimac street fire a short three years afterwards, together with three companions. The Bacon Building fire, Dudley street, Roxbury. It was on the eve of election day of the Curley-Kenney fight for mayor. It was also one of the coldest nights in the history of Boston.

"The Albany street fire, corner of Albany street and Dover, in the great lumber section of the city. The old skating rink fire at the Boston and Providence Railroad station, in Park square, where now stands the Hotel Statler. The Masonic Temple fire at Tremont and Boylston streets and the old Globe theater blaze on Washington street when Hanlon's "Superba" was playing. The Arcadia lodging house fire, South End. My boy they were fires."

More About Firemen:

The Civil Service Commission will announce that, in order to allow members of the Boston fire department to attend the National Convention of the American Legion at Los Angeles next September, it has deferred the examination dates for promotions to captains and lieutenants. The first will be held between September 10 and October 8; lieutenants, from September 17 to October 15. The firemen's band of 75 pieces will head the local delegation to the coast.

A Fish Story:

On the main road in Concord, Mass., there is a little shop called "Shorty's Shop." He deals in athletic goods and bicycles. I entered and, not finding anyone about, was getting ready to leave when a voice asked me if I wanted anything. I turned to answer, when a man emerged from the cellar and said "I have just been in the cellar fishing."

"Fishing in the cellar?" I ventured. "Sure," he replied, there is a trout brook running under the house and when I want fish for dinner why, I just go down stairs and get one. I recently caught an eight pounder down there." In the words of "Noo-Stop" Corrigan, it's O. K. by me.

Irving Berlin will make a personal appearance in the Hub next month. Also on the program is Ina Ray Hutton's Rhythm Band, as reported. It carries a review of all the famous songs. Attorney "Joe" McDonough is a patient at the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital suffering from pains of the stomach.

Commodity Price Rise Moderates

By HUGH E. BRADSHAW
Financial Editor

The rise in commodity prices is showing a tendency to become more moderate. A comprehensive index such as that compiled by the National Fertilizer Association actually held even in the latest week. But it is individual performances that interest us.

The various series of which the index is composed show 40 advances against 26 declines. This compares well to 44 and 17 in the previous period.

A downturn took place in the textile group the first in six weeks due to weakness of cotton and print cloth prices. Some further declines are to be expected.

Metallurgicals remained unchanged moderately lower in reflection of easier trends for rubber and cattle feed. All told, together with the behavior of other prices, these evidence a desire to at least mark time after the move up in the last market week.

NATURAL HESITATION

The abrupt halt of the market rise has proven a disconcerting matter for some of the most rabid bulls. It seems that they expected prices to move higher without any halts whatsoever. BETTY ALDEN

On Beacon Hill

By BETTY ALDEN

SOCIETY folk who find a genuine pleasure in delving into things historical and preserving the treasures of the past, have a treat in store for them on Monday, August 1st. For on that occasion a small group will be entertained at the historical Warner House in Portsmouth, N. H., at a tea to mark the opening of an exhibit of rare antiques and family heirlooms.

Mrs. Barrett Wendell, honorary chairman of the Warner House, heads the list of patronesses for the party, with the assistance of Mrs. William E. Marvin, Mrs. J. Templeman Coolidge, Mrs. Henry G. Vaughan, Mrs. Miles White, Mrs. J. Winslow Peirce, and Mrs. Lawrence Green. Mrs. Arthur D. Hill, Mrs. Henry L. Green and Mrs. George H. Warren are in charge of deciding the quantity of tea and refreshments necessary to serve the guests.

The most modern of femininity in the persons of several debs and post debs will be dressed in quaint Colonial costumes to serve the tea. In the group will be Mary Fuller, daughter of Ex-Governor Fuller whose summer home at Little Boars Head is just one resort south of Portsmouth on the Atlantic coast. Anne Decatur, Mary Coolidge, Joan Tower, Josephine Rice, Priscilla Porter, Justine Hatfield, Elizabeth Warren, Rosamond Thayer and several others.

Most youngsters are tickled pink when they get their first crabbing net, but Oliver Wendell, Jr. will be in a juvenile paradise this summer when he actually spends the month of August on a lake ranch near Alberta, Canada. The seven-year-old will accompany his parents Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wendell of Hamilton, and his two sisters Helen and Augusta on the Western trip upon which they will start July 29th.

Mr. Wendell, treasurer of the Boston Opera Association, must have received inspiration for the trip from H. Wendell Endicott, president of the association. The latter has recently returned from British Columbia, where he took reels and reels of technicolor movies which he will show for members of the Conasset Garden Club Friday evening.

Joining summer theater groups has become as fashionable as the little angora sweaters North Shore girls are wearing over evening dresses. Latest to pack her make-up kit and grease paint and journey off to study all the angles of theatrical technique is vivacious Frances Sorwell popularly known as Bubbles. She joined the Surry Players in Surry, Maine.

Speaking of summer theaters, Mary Winslow, daughter of Mrs. Lawrence Ewing, and cousin of the dancer, Miriam Winslow, is becoming quite a figure in the theatrical world through her successes as producer-manager of the summer theater at Chatham. Mary, who is but 23, obtained her theatrical background at Smith where she majored in drama, and she is a drama instructor at Wheaton. In her Monomoy Theater venture she has the executive assistance of two of her Smith classmates, Miriam Myers of Boston and Dorothy Rockwell of New York, who are her representatives in these two metropolitan cities.

Mary has peopled her summer theater with a capable group of actors whose weekly productions are attracting theater-goers from all over the Cape. She herself, is a tiny brunette, quiet and serious but possessing a load of energy and ability to devote to her work. Like many of those who captured the public admiration with unusual undertakings, she is being interviewed over station WORL this afternoon and will describe the part played by youth in the modern theater . . . She should know, if anyone does.

Proparvulis Girls on Vacation

Cruising, touring and beaching seems the ideal type of vacation for Proparvulis girls, who have forgotten club affairs in the whirl of informal summer fun.

Edna Abbiatti, vice president in charge of bridges, will sail out on New York shortly for Venezuelas. Her five weeks' junket will include many colorful Central and South American ports.

Departing Saturday on a cruise to Virginia Beach and Washington is Rita Catlin of Dorchester, who's been summering at her parents' home in Bayside. She was feted at an informal buffet supper which a group of club members gave her.

Among the guests were Anna Churchill, Helen Lafferty, Hazel Conchey and Doris Cahill who returned a short while ago from Bermuda but is planning a motor trip through the White Mountains.

Yet another Park is the destination of Helene Stout of Milton, former president of the club. Helene is very active in alumnae affairs of Emmanuel College.

Cape Cod has attracted a quartet of prominent members. Doris and Margaret Muckarkey have made Bass Rocks Harwichport their vacation headquarters while Dorothy and Marguerite Sweeney may be found having fun at Harwichport.

Among the South Shore residents are Dorothy Martin, who is vacationing with her family in Scituate and Catherine Devine, who is stationed on Strawberry Hill overlooking Nantasket.

Marblehead and its salty charm was attracted Marguerite Barry

St. John's Fair To Be Smart

Always a clever and original group, the committee for the St. John's Church Fair, on July 28th in Beverly Farms has planned all sorts of novel ideas to make the fair a smart event. In fact, they will transform all the booths to represent sports of the year round, with such contrasting corners as a rummage table decorated with footballs and Harvard banners and a cake table representing a skating rink with sparkling ice and snow.

In addition to the committee already announced additional workers have been rounded up. Nancy Bertelsen heads a group of debs to sell cigarettes. Pauline McKean and Betsy Chadbourn will guard the buried treasure in a boat laden with sand. Joanna Hoyt will lure customers to the grabs, which are to be wrapped around a May pole.

The toy table will be presided over by three charming young matrons, Mrs. Edward Carl Shattuck, Mrs. Sherman Holcombe and Mrs. J. Matlocks White. Mrs. Charles K. Cummings, head saleslady of the vegetable table, will arrange her wares to resemble a harvest scene.

The Women's Auxiliary is planning a bridge and whist table to represent indoor sports. Mrs. Frederick Fletcher is in charge of the table.

Virginia Murphy Whist Hostess

Virginia Murphy of Stony Beach, Hull, will be hostess at a benefit whist party Monday evening at the Bay View Lodge.

The proceeds will aid the auxiliary of the Oscar Smith Mitchell Post, of the American Legion.

Jealousy Brings Quarrels

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Patience with her young husband, and patience to wait until her own tendency to envy leave him, is the task ahead of this young wife.

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX

My parents are dead and I have no relatives, but one friend. We married four years and I am 22. My husband is 24.

No one could be more generous than he. He has never refused me anything I asked for. Our income is moderate, but ample for two people. Three months after we were married he left a large job with them. One night we talked it over and he told me that he thinks so much of the baby and me that he doesn't go out with them any more, but wants to be free to accept the next job that comes along. He wants to understand it, respect it as a married man. But this is not a fault that has taken him by surprise.

All the girl jealousies I have and every time he goes out I have a row with some woman I accuse him and quarrel with him when he comes home. He always is the peace and I become hysterical and shrill. We are each other.

UNCERTAIN.

Some men are a deadly offense and as long as any woman will [illegible]

"Arthur told me," she said, "that Mr. Brando and another man had visited the hotel where he was working and made him sign some papers. He said, 'I'm awfully sorry, Kitty, that I got mixed up in it.' I said to him, 'Why were you forced to sign them?' He said, 'You don't know the conditions under which I had to sign them.'"

"He said to me that in the event that they did not convict me, he was due for bodily harm. He said, 'Do you think you can help me? I don't want to go to court. If I could get enough money to get out of town, probably I'd go to California. That would save me from testifying.'

Ambers Will Give Armstrong Battle / Lou Fast and Is Still Young

By JACK CONWAY

HENRY ARMSTRONG has started training for his 15-round bout with Lou Ambers with the same enthusiasm he displayed as he prepared for his world's championship battle with Barney Ross. Armstrong is still young and ambitious, and is anxious to prove he is the greatest boxer of his weight and inches in the world.

Mr. Boston

Armstrong may find Ambers a more difficult opponent to conquer than Ross. The latter passed his fistic peak more than two years ago, and lacked the necessary speed to battle on even terms with the youthful and aggressive Armstrong.

It was evident as early as the first round that Ross could not compete successfully against Armstrong's faster punching, speed and youth.

Only Ross' amazing courage and ability as a defensive boxer enabled him to weather 15 blistering rounds against Armstrong.

Ambers, like Armstrong, is still young. Lou is exceptionally fast and will be able to maintain a fast pace.

While Armstrong tosses a great many punches, he is not a great socker. If he could but with terrific force, he would have stopped Ross.

Armstrong with his [illegible] speed and fury [illegible] attack. He believes these assets will also enable him to whip Ambers.

"I took the Louis-Braddock bout to Chicago and didn't make enough money to pay my train fare back to New York," Mike Jacobs told me when in Boston last Winter. "I won't make that mistake again. My future major promotions will take place in New York."

There are [illegible] of town fans who will journey to New York when they would not consider going to any other city. New York offers much in the way of theaters, night clubs and other entertainment in addition to the boxing bout which is the [illegible] trip to Broadway.

Red Sox, Chisox Game Off

By BILL GRIMES

The Red Sox were stymied again by the weatherman for the third consecutive day. Jimmy Dykes lead his gang of White Sox over to New York for a series with the Yankees, praising our New England weather.

Leo Nonnenkamp

The players, regardless of the clubs' decision to call off hostilities, were anxious to limber up after three days of inactivity and cavorted about in the rain for three hours.

Though Joe Cronin was a bit upset over the postponement, he was jubilant that the rest would benefit both himself and Ben Chapman, who is out with a "charley horse."

His only fear is the flock of doubleheaders that face the club later in the season. But he hopes by that time that Lefty Grove and Jack Wilson will be on hand to help out the cause.

With all the postponements and reverses suffered by the congenial manager of the locals, the play of Leo Nonnenkamp has gladdened the heart of Cronin.

This lad has been filling the shoes of the ailing Chapman like a veteran.

"Leo is a natural ball player," declared Cronin today. "He is also smart enough to realize that it is of vital importance for him to stay in shape at all times.

"Many of the present day youngsters who are retained as replacements by major league clubs begin to get cute when they discover they are going to 'stay up.' They start to loaf, and about all they have on their minds is pay day.

"Then, when an emergency arises and they are injected into the line up, it takes them a week or ten days to round into condition.

"But, such shortsightedness doesn't pertain to Nonny. He is anxious to win a regular berth. So, regardless of whether or not he is playing, Leo is out there hustling every day.

"He is one of the first players on the field, and until the game gets under way he is on the go every second.

"We've got some great outfielders in Joe Vosmik, 'Doc' Cramer and Ben Chapman, when he's right, but, confidentially, Nonnenkamp is our 'ace' outer gardener, defensively.

"Personally, I don't think there is a better fly catcher in either league. Furthermore, I honestly believe that if he was in there every day opposing pitchers would have difficulty keeping him out of the .300 class."

CHARLIE GRIMM GABBY HARTNETT

CHARLIE GRIMM, left, who as manager, led the Chicago Cubs to two pennants in six years, congratulates his successor, Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, after being removed by Owner Phil K. Wrigley. "Gabby" is considered baseball's "perfect catcher" by many diamond experts. The two are still the best of friends and will remain so. Charlie has realized for some time that Wrigley was planning a change of pilots, and there is no one he would would rather have succeed him than his old pal, "Gabby." (Story on Page 31)

Lazzeri's Status Mystery of Game

By Associated Press

Maybe Tony Galento can't box, but he certainly can be funny . . . Latest about the pride of Orange, N. J., concerns his interior decorating depot.

Tony couldn't figure out why the place didn't pay so he went into conference with the proprietor of a successful place in Newark . . . "Well, suppose I look at your books," said his friend . . . "What books?" asked Tony . . . "Don't you keep books for your place," asked the other, "Listen, partner," replied the great man, "people come to my place to drink beer, not read."

Maybe it's the pitching that has made the Indians a pennant-bound outfit, but this agent thinks it's the old hustle . . . Lyn Lary is making plays he never even tried for a year ago . . . Tuesday at the stadium he raced clear into centerfield, batted Bill Dickey's looper with one hand and caught it with the other . . . Then, just to make it stick, he did it again later in the game.

Johnny Allen

And did you ever stop and think if the Yanks are beaten out by the Tribe this year, Johnny Allen and Larry, two ex-Yanks, will have a lot to do with it.

That's swell news from Montreal . . . Couple of weeks ago the fans up there were after Rabbit Maranville's scalp . . . Now they're packing the park (10,000 of them last night) to cheer him and the Royals . . . The team has gone unbeaten in nine games, which is plenty of baseball in any league . . . And they couldn't have done it for a grander guy than the old Rab.

Looks like Fred Wolcott of Rice, who is just about the classiest hurdler the Southwest has produced in years, can win anywhere . . . He captured the 110-meter high hurdles in 14.2 in Stockholm yesterday . . . That's slightly faster than crawling, comrades.

Well, that situation at Chicago is finally ironed out . . . Wonder what will happen to Signor Tony Lazzeri, who between you, me and the Eiffel Tower, is one of the really smart baseball men, now that Gabby Hartnett has taken over the job of managing the Cubs . . . Wouldn't it be fun if the Cubs started to click in the National right now . . . And with Mr. Dizzy Dean apparently ready for something besides oral manslaughter they might do just that . . . Dean made a poor manager out of Grimm and it wouldn't surprise this department if he made a great one out of old Chas. Leo Hartnett.

Palombo Holds Batting Lead In Cape Loop

By FRANK CONWAY

(Cape League Correspondent)

With the Cape Cod League season approaching the quarter mark, Tommy Palombo, Bourne's chunky third-sacker, is still pacing the circuit in hitting with a sparkling .488 average.

Palombo, a top-notch athlete at Boston College, has crashed out 21 safeties in 43 trips to the platter. Since the loop started activity last July 2, he has remained out front in the hit parade.

Wally Sullivan, Falmouth's hard-thumping left fielder, is in second place with .440, having collected 22 licks in 50 times at the plate.

Hurlers like George Fallon of Bourne, and Ernie Reidman of Harwich, are out front of Palombo and Sullivan in batting, but both these players haven't been up near as many times as the two leaders.

Reidman's record shows 12 socks in 21 trips for a .571 average, while Fallon has four in eight for .500.

Johnny Spirida, Falmouth's giant third baseman, has the most hits with 24.

They'll Do It Every Time -:- By Jimmy Hatlo

HOW IS THAT FLAT WHEEL POWER AND TRACTION BOND YOU SOLD ME COMING OUT? WILL I GET ALL MY MONEY BACK?
SPLENDID! THE OUTLOOK ON THAT BOND IS - AHEM! - ROSY. IN 1936, THERE WAS A LOSS OF A MILLION. BUT IN 1937, THERE WAS A LOSS OF ONLY $750,000 - HENCE, A GAIN OF A QUARTER MILLION IN THE FISCAL YEAR, EXCLUSIVE OF DEPRECIATION, BUT INCLUDING PROTECTIVE COMMITTEE FEES AND AFTER DEDUCTING FIXED CHARGES AND ADDING NET WORTH. HANG ONTO THAT BOND. SOME DAY IT'LL COME BACK — IT'S ALL CLEAR AS MUD TO HER NOW. HE REELS OUT THAT LINE LIKE HE UNDERSTOOD IT, HIMSELF.
YEH, THAT BOND WILL COME BACK - LIKE A JAPANESE SHIRT FROM A CHINESE LAUNDRY.
POOR DEAR - SHE THINKS FIXED CHARGES ARE SOMETHING YOU DO WITH A TRAFFIC TICKET.
HANDING THE LADY INVESTOR THE LINE ABOUT THE BOND THAT TURNED A TRIFLE SOUR. THEY'LL DO IT EVERY TIME
THANX TO C. FITZGIBBON-CHICAGO

The top one here seems much the best and should score with SUPPLY OFFICER doing the farring. BEAVERSTEIN could cause an upset.

RURAL CRIER breaks slowly but takes full advantage of openings, hence I take her to win the fourth Bristol County derby. She can make no mistakes however, for Joe Ayotte's hound can go the route. CORPORAL CARESS should run well on the outside with CAULD KAIL ever a threat.

Fortitude Secret Of Indians' Success

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Oscar Vitt, who has been teaching the Cleveland Indians how to tame the Brewer's big horses at Yankee Stadium, won't make any pennant predictions right now, but he will admit that he, and baseball are getting more whacky every year.

The Indians are in town for what was to have been a "crowbar" four-game series with the Yankees. Rain washed out yesterday's doubleheader and left the clubs a double bill today and a slight lessening of tension all around—that is for all except Mr. Vitt.

"This pennant thing has everyone up in the air. You know we have a pretty good ball club. We went to Washington for a series and what happens. Don't tell me. I know. We lost two out of three to the Senators and then played bad ball in Philadelphia."

In other years this would have washed the warpaint off the Indians but this year the Tribe is "staying in there" come good days or bad. What was Medicine Man Vitt's prescription for keeping the Tribe on the ball?

LIKES KELTNER

"No prescription needed," snapped Vitt. "This is a good ball club. A lot of stuff; hitter's like Averill and Trosky, this boy Keltner at third base, plenty of good pitching—Harder pitched a sweetheart up there Tuesday, didn't he?—and a lot of spirit. They don't choke up, though I see some of our friends think they will, and they hustle."

To an observer the last two words are the important ones. The Indians play every game to the hilt. Lyn Lary is making plays at short he never attempted before, all because Vitt has the former Yankee shortstop and the rest of the team sold on the pennant idea. They're not too worried about the Yankees, who they privately think, are too confident, or anyone else.

Vitt has little to say about Bob Feller, who has won himself 10 games so far, but who has not yet lived up to the tremendous tub-thumping that accompanied his debut. The impression is that Oscar thinks the schoolboy wonder had it a little too easy when he first came up.

FELLER FINE PITCHER

"But he's a fine pitcher and he'll get better," said Vitt. "But don't forget Allen, the most underrated pitcher in the business, Harder and young Johnny Humphries. In fact, don't forget anybody. They're all playing great ball."

With that equipment it should be a pleasure to beat the Yankees.

"Beating the Yankees is always a pleasure," commented Vitt, "but it is usually just as easy as pushing their stadium into the East river."

to down Shikat quickly. Steve is rightfully on fire as a result of some of the remarks Shikat has made about Irish wrestlers.

I believe Casey is as strong as Shikat, and that he knows as much about the fine points of the mat game as does the powerful German who twice defeated Dan O'Mahoney.

Casey recently looked impressive when he won from Yvon Robert in a tussle at the Garden. True, the Irishman got a bit rough late in the match, and knocked Robert out with a smashing right hand punch to the jaw. Punching comes under the heading of modern wrestling, and as Robert had also done his share of hitting he had no right to object to Casey's actions.

Shikat is as rough as Casey, and as a result Referee Sam Smith will be in for a busy time.

Warship TAKES NUNS FROM SPAIN

LONDON, July 21 (INS)—As the result of personal intervention by United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, Great Britain has sent a destroyer to Barcelona to rescue 28 Spanish nuns sequestered by the Spanish government, it was learned today.

The nuns embarked upon the destroyer Hero at Barcelona and landed at Marseilles last night en route to London.

There originally were 34 nuns assigned to the order in Barcelona, but six were killed in an air raid. Kennedy first heard of the plight of the others through his daughters, Eunice, Patricia and Jean, who attend the Sacred Heart convent at Roehampton.

The Sacred Heart convent here appealed to Ambassador Kennedy several weeks ago to intervene in behalf of the nuns. Kennedy went to Viscount Halifax, foreign secretary, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain and Spanish government officials.

After protracted communications, Barcelona agreed to release the nuns providing Kennedy undertook to arrange their removal.

Kennedy again appealed to Lord Halifax and the latter agreed to send the Hero to the Spanish city. The nuns will join the Sacred Heart order here.

Movies Carry Stocks Down

NEW YORK, July 21 (AP)—Another outbreak of selling in motion picture shares today turned a stock market rally into a quick retreat.

Loew's broke more than $3 on top of a break of about $4 in the preceding session. Paramount, Warner Brothers and Twentieth Century-Fox also suffered further declines.

PICK-A-BACK HOPS FOR N. Y.-- CORRIGAN TOILS

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DUBLIN, July 21—For the first time since he flew to Dublin, New York will again see Douglas Corrigan's famous airplane on August 9 when the steamship Lehigh arrives with his precious nine-year-old "crate."

The smiling, enthusiastic young airman personally helped prepare the ship for the return journey this afternoon, tingling with joy at the chance to get his plane back to America.

Corrigan consigned the dismantled airplane to himself so no one else can collect it until he arrives. He has accepted an invitation of the United States lines to return to New York as a guest and probably will sail on August 4.

He dismantled his ancient treas-

Hurley-Labor Plan Rejected

The Republican majority in the House today approved the ways and means committee recommendations for defeat of Gov. Hurley's demand for a $10,000,000 work-relief bond issue.

It voted also to diatribute $5,500,000 of gasoline tax funds to cities and towns for local highway projects instead of placing the money in the general fund.

SOX GAME OFF

For the third straight day rain caused the postponement of a Chicago White Sox-Red Sox baseball game at Fenway Park.

MONTREAL, July 21 (Canadian Press)—The British pick-a-back seaplane Mercury took off at 2 P. M. (Boston time) today for New York from Boucherville Air Harbor, where she arrived this morning on the first trans-Atlantic flight for a plane of her type.

She had alighted on the St. Lawrence river at Boucherville, 12 miles east of Montreal, at 11:20 a. m., (Boston Time), 20 hours 20 minutes after leaving Foynes, Ireland, where she was launched in midair from the back of her mother ship, the flying boat Maia.

The Mercury, four-engined seaplane operated by Imperial Airways, began the 327-mile hop to New York with no such help, rising gracefully from the river.

In her nonstop flight from Foynes to Boucherville the Mercury covered 2715 miles and came in with 80 gallons of gasoline still in her tanks, enough for another 250 miles. After a two hour 40 minute stop to refuel she was off again for New York.

Same Stuff Again-- 'More Showers'

With "scattered showers" officially in prospect for tonight and tomorrow, Boston's July rainfall was keeping the weatherman's adding machine clicking busily today.

The total rainfall of the month up to noon today was 3.88 inches, or .59 more than normal for the whole month of July which is 3.29 inches.

Not yet in sight, however, was a new record for July, for back in 1863 there was a July rainfall of 12.38 inches.

For the 24 hours ended at 9 a. m. today, .94 inches of rainfall were recorded; for the 24 hours previous, .39 inches, and for the 24 hours that ended at 9 a. m. Tuesday, .94 inches—a grand total of 2.27 inches.
